Violinist John Lowry is Associate Concertmaster of the Calgary Philharmonic; from 1988-93 he led the Kensington Sinfonia, a Calgary-based chamber orchestra which was frequently heard on local and national CBC Radio. He has performed extensively as a solo and ensemble musician, and has taught at the University of Manitoba, University of Lowell, Mass., and the Courtenay Youth Music Centre.

Richard Troeger has taught at the University of Alberta since 1989, beginning here as a Canada Research Fellow. A performer on the harpsichord, clavichord, and fortepiano, he is also a scholar of Baroque and Classical performance practices, and is currently writing a book on instrumental articulation from the seventeenth to the early nineteenth century.
