COLD WARRIOR PROPAGANDA PAMPHLETS,

1920s-1970s

English-Language Soviet and International Communist Party Propaganda Pamphlets, Magazines, and Newspapers.

Emphasis on materials from and by the Canadian Left, or Soviet and other pamphlets

Introduction

The pamphlets documented here cover the years stretching from the mid-1920s to the early 1970s. A few titles of pamphlets printed in the 1980s are added to show that some attitudes and suspicions didn't change much as the USSR went through the period of perestroika. By far the greater part of the collection comes from the Communist Party of Canada and its individual members, but it also takes in many items from the American, British, and Soviet communist parties

Soviet Marxist-Leninist versions of international events are represented in these pamphlets from the earliest ideological formulations represented in the catchwords World Revolution, through United Front, Class vs. Class, early Cold War, to Peaceful Coexistence.

Included as well are lists of all essays written by, and about, members of the Communist Party of Canada and other Canadian leftwing organizations, and printed in the Comintern and Cominform press, 1919-1956. These items have all been photocopied and are located on file in the CRCR. They represent a wealth of research data on Canadian participation in international communist organizations.

Some specifically designated speeches by Stalin and Khrushchev, published in English and distributed to Canadian and other communist parties, can be found here. However, most of the CRCR's other large collection of pamphlets and booklets containing formal speeches by Soviet Communist Party leaders from Lenin to Gorbachev are excluded from this list. They are listed in the CRCR's general finding aides along with their Russia-language versions.

Where it is deemed useful knowledge, publishing houses are referenced. In cases of unusual length, the page numbers are noted.
